President Abraham Lincoln often visited hospitals to talk with wounded soldiers during the civil war. Once, doctors pointed out a young soldier who was near death and Lincoln went over to his bedside. "Is there anything I can do for you ?" asked the President. The soldier obviously didn't recognize Lincoln, and with some effort he was able to whisper, 'Would you please write a letter to my mother ?" A pen and paper were provided and the President carefully began writing down what the young man was able to say ? "My dearest mother, I was badly hurt while doing my duty, I'm afraid I'm not going to recover, Don't grieve too much for me, please, kiss Mary and John for me. God bless you and father". The soldier was too weak to continue, so Lincoln signed the letter for him and added. "written and signed for your son by Abraham Lincoln".

The young man asked to see the note and was astonished when he discovered who had written it ? "Are you really the President ?" he asked. "Yes, I am", Lincoln replied quietly. Then he asked if there was anything else he could do.

"Would you please hold my hand ?" the soldier asked "It will help me through to the end". In the hushed room, the tall President took the boy's hand in his hand and spoke warm words of encouragement until death came.
